

QHHT did it again! It saved another life!

I felt the need to do an emergency session on a client today. She called me yesterday; was sobbing uncontrollably, stating that she was in such grief, such pain and totally depressed. We had a long talk about the two sessions she had with me last year. We did have two successful sessions at the time and she even referred people to me, but she said the physic vampire came for a visit so her healing lasted only a short while because she gave in to the old familiar feelings of guilt, grief, pain, anger, hatred, fear, unworthy, self-punishment, etc. She wanted love, peace and joy, but had a habit of holding on to the old energies that wanting so bad to eliminate. She didn't even know what love feels like.

Even though, we both think that we had a successful session each time, but she kept holding on to the old tormented energy. She tried other modalities and joined a church that confused her more. It went from bad to worst.

I rearranged my schedule so I could work on her the next day. We spent 3 hours on the pre-talk. She was sobbing the whole time. I had to keep myself in the neutral mode, staying calm and collective. We did some intensive energy cleansing. While I asked her to put her hand on her heart and feeling herself releasing all of her unwanted negative energies out, she was pulling every part of her body like a mad warrior. In the mean time I kept repeating the affirmation that all of the negative energies were not allow to stay and being removed and sent back to the Source to be transmuted with love and gratitude for the lessons learned, forever and permanently. Then I really felt that she needed more help so I was guided to call in the highest vibration of love and light from the Divine Source, Jesus, Quan Yin, AAs etc.. to come in and only the highest vibrations could remain with us. It went on for more than half an hour until she finally calmed down and ready to go under.

During hypnosis, she didn't see much. She kept saying that something happened here and there (every appropriate time and place she was going through) but she couldn't see what happened. She only knew that something very bad was happening. (The SC said those memories no longer served her. She didn't need to see but just to acknowledge them.)

Her ultimate healing with the SC went on for more than an hour. I asked if there were any other higher beings there in our presence assisting in this intensive healing. The SC said, Yes, they all are here,.... Jesus, Quan-Yin, Archangels (long list of AA's names), all her guides and "Us". The SC was talking to her like a mom talking to her loving child. After her healing was completed, I asked if all the higher beings would help heal each individual family member in her life that involved in this loveless relationships. They're much in need to be healed also. They called in the Higher Self of each person and had one on one intense healing until each of them received the collective healing as well. This was going on for awhile. She didn't cry or showed a sign of any emotions at all. The SC had everything under control. They even told her toward the end that she did not make them up; this was an intervention from the divine. She was told how much they love her and no longer want her to self-punish. None of the issues in her life was her fault. The guilt needed to be removed. It was her own assumptions from the illusion of self that set up the beliefs that turned her against LOVE and turned family against herself because she wanted to keep punishing her self. She no longer needed to hold on to those beliefs and they asked her to make a new choice in her rebirth with the new belief, replacing those undesirable feelings with LOVE. I requested the high vibration beings to shower her with their unconditional love to give her a taste of the ultimate love and suggested her to make the choice of holding on to it and never again give in to any energy that opposite from LOVE.

When she came out of trance, her eyes were so bright and obviously, her face had a beautiful glow like she just visited heaven. She said that she had gone afar and just came back with a total perception and felt very free; she did sense the presence of the highest vibrations of love and light that showered her with pure love. She asked me if I realized that I just saved a life. She shared with me that she was so depressed and was sobbing uncontrollably for hours and about to do the unthinkable to end her life yesterday, but she felt the need to scroll her cell phone, looking at the contact names, and my name showed up. That's the reason why she decided that I was the one to call. I'm so glad that she did. I felt like I just received a million bucks. I asked her to pay it forward to everyone in her family, shower them with the love she now has and enjoy the new way of life with love, peace, joy and harmony.

QHHT did it again! We are forever grateful. Heart felt thanks to Dolores, Julia and her team whom bringing QHHT to our lives.

So much love,

Patti
